

Just Reflecting

Peace Day Sept 21st

PEACE = FUTURE

Pace Day provides an opportunity for individuals, organizations and nations to create practical acts of peace on a shared date.

Mahatma Gandhi said 'It's the action, not the fruit of the action, that's important.

You have to do the right thing. You may never know what results come from your action. But if you do nothing, there will be no result.'

Today in the midst of our work for justice, we are challenged to remember that 'if you want peace work for justice'. And we do. In so many ways.

Yet if we do nothing there will be no result. No peace. No Justice. It's a challenge for our justice work; and a challenge for the peace we build. They are not separate. They are one.

We are challenged to find a peaceful place within ourselves,
Within our world and within others:
to restore , strengthen , protect , create and celebrate peace.
Be seen. Be visible. Let the world know you care about peace.

*How can we 'be' peace,
make peace, create peace?*

*Dare to imagine what you could do in one day,
to make peace in your world.*

Peace is...:

Anyone, anywhere can celebrate Peace Day. It can be as simple as lighting a candle at noon, or just sitting in silent meditation. Or it can involve getting your co-workers, or community to engaged in an event.

'Peace building can be as simple as a small act of kindness or generosity to ourselves, to each other or to our environment.'
Michaela Guthridge (GSANZ)

Actions for peace:

- Plant some 'whirled peace' with others. On a desk, in the street, with a community or neighbours, at school . See Pinwheels for peace in web links
- Talk, draw, reflect on peace with others that you might not normally share with
- Use the peace web links
- Make and share a peaceful space or moment

if you want peace, work for justice
